

Dr. Anas Al Kamyani is a distinguished healthcare leader and innovator, currently serving as the Director of the National Center for Virtual Health at the Ministry of Health, Oman. As a Family Physician by education, Dr. Al Kamyani has combined his medical expertise with a passion for telemedicine and AI in healthcare, driving Oman's digital health transformation forward.

Dr. Al Kamyani played a pivotal role as the Project Manager in establishing the National Center for Virtual Health, laying the foundation for modern, accessible, and technology-driven healthcare solutions across the country. His contributions extend beyond institutional leadership—he has been actively involved in Oman Vision 2040, participating in various workshops and committees to shape the future of the health sector.

With a deep commitment to innovation and healthcare excellence, Dr. Al Kamyani continues to advocate for cutting-edge advancements in telemedicine and AI, aiming to improve patient care and health outcomes through technology-driven solutions.